

Table 1.A
Year-terms in the Book of Mormon

Text sequence

This Table lists all 426 year-terms in the extant text of the Book of Mormon. Whenever the singular noun year is implied by the nearby text, the year-term is noted with a tilde (~). The sequence is that set forth in the printer's manuscript, which is a copy of the original manuscript prepared for use by the typesetter of the first (1830) edition. Each year-term is given a text number (under the heading "Text no.") based on that sequence.

Textual comments

The spelling of each year-term is based on the reconstruction of the original text set forth in Royal Skousen, ed., The Book of Mormon: The Earliest Text (New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 2009). In this reconstruction (the "Yale text"), the non-standard scribal spelling of words in the manuscripts has been updated to meet modern spelling practices. In several instances, spelling issues involving the singular word year occur. These differences and other transcription issues are noted in the "Textual comments" at the end of this Table.

References

This Table also provides references that may be used to locate year-terms in the manuscript facsimiles, the 1830 edition, the Yale text, and modern editions published by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (the "Church"). The Yale text uses the Church reference system for chapters and verses. References appearing in the following list of expressions are displayed in columns with headings abbreviated as follows:

Original manuscript. Texts are identified by page number in Royal Skousen, ed., The Original Manuscript of the Book of Mormon: Typographical Facsimile of the Extant Text (Provo, Utah: BYU FARMS, 2001) (under the column heading "Original ms."). Texts for which the original manuscript is no longer extant are noted with a dash (—). For example, the 11th year-term (years) in 1 Nephi 22:26 may be located on page 164 of the facsimile edition of the original manuscript; however, the 13th year-term (years) in 2 Nephi 5:34 is marked by a dash (—) that indicates the original manuscript page for that text is not extant.

Printer's manuscript. Texts also are identified by part and page number in Royal Skousen, ed., The Printer's Manuscript of the Book of Mormon: Typographical Facsimile of the Entire Text in Two Parts, Part One: 1 Nephi 1–Alma 17 (Provo, Utah: BYU FARMS, 2001) or in Royal Skousen, ed., The Printer's Manuscript of the Book of Mormon: Typographical Facsimile of the Entire Text in Two Parts, Part Two: Alma 17–Moroni 10 (Provo, Utah: BYU FARMS, 2001) (jointly, under the column heading "Printer's ms."). For example, page 142 in Part One is referenced in the following list as 1:142 and page 871 in Part Two is referenced as 2:871.

1830 edition of the Book of Mormon. Texts may be located by the listed page number (under the column heading "1830 ed."). This study compared and relied on a digital version of Joseph Smith, Jr., The Book of Mormon (Palmyra, New York: E.B. Grandin, 1830), accessed at archive.org and a reprint version of Joseph Smith, Jr., The Book of Mormon (Independence, Missouri: Herald Heritage Reprint, 1970). No pagination or diction differences in year-terms were found.

The Yale text and modern Church editions. Texts are classified by major division, chapter and verse (under the column heading "Church ed."). For example, the 55th year-term (year) appears in the Book of Alma, chapter 3, verse 25. This reference appears in the list as "3:25" under the abbreviated subheading "Alma". Similarly, citations in the other books are listed under subheadings like "Helaman" and "4 Nephi". References in the Words of Mormon appear under the subheading "Words".

Textual comments¹

Text no. 1 (1 Nephi 1:4): When Oliver Cowdery copied the text that apparently should have included this year-term into the printer's manuscript, he wrote "in the commencement of the reign of Zedekiah". He revised the manuscript by inserting "first year of the" before the word reign. The ink flow is similar in both parts of the expression, indicating an immediate revision that presumably replicated the now missing original manuscript text. This study uses the revised version as set forth in the Yale text.

Text no. 77 (Alma 16:11): This instance is not extant in the original manuscript. Cowdery first wrote days in the printer's manuscript, but he quickly crossed out days and inserted years. The ink flow appears to be the same; so, this change is accepted in the Yale text as having been in the original manuscript. This study uses the corrected version.

Text no. 87 (Alma 28:10): The extant original manuscript depicts Cowdery's correct spelling of year, but when he copied this text into the printer's manuscript, he ran out of ink when he had written yea. Later, and it might have been without any delay, he rewrote the letter a and inserted the letter r with a similar level of ink flow. Because Cowdery ran out of ink, this instance may not be one where he misspelled year as yea and later corrected it. This study uses the revised version set forth in the Yale text.

Text no. 90 (Alma 30:4): Cowdery inserted the misspelled word yea above the line in the original manuscript. Sometime later, he added the letter r, using a weaker ink flow. The printer's manuscript and Yale text used in this study have the correct spelling.

Text no. 105 (Alma 48:2): Cowdery wrote the misspelled word yea in the printer's manuscript. The original manuscript for this text is not extant. The spelling error was corrected by the typesetter of the 1830 edition. This study uses the corrected version set forth in the Yale text.

Text no. 107 (Alma 48:21): The original manuscript is extant for Cowdery's inscription of the word year; however, when he reproduced year in the printer's manuscript, he misspelled it as yea. This misspelling was not corrected by the typesetter of the 1830 edition. The original manuscript spelling year is used in the Yale text and in this study.

Text no. 135 (Alma 56:1): In the original manuscript, Cowdery initially spelled year as yea, but he later inserted the letter r between yea and the following word of. In the printer's manuscript and 1830 edition, year was spelled correctly. The Yale text and this study use the correct spelling.

Text no. 173 (Helaman 3:3): In the original manuscript, printer's manuscript and 1830 edition, the diction of this expression is "the forty and sixth yea". Skousen concluded, based on "scribal practice and internal evidence", that Cowdery failed to add the final r to the word year, something he did in several other instances involving the word year (as noted above) and in 11 instances with the comparable word your. Usually Cowdery corrected the misspellings, but in this expression and in Alma 48:2 and 21, he did not. The typesetter corrected the spelling in Alma 48:2, but here and in Alma 48:21, the typesetter punctuated and spelled the expressions as though the intended word was yea. This study accepts Skousen's conclusion that "[t]here is no doubt that the yea here ... is an error for year".
